PREVIEW OF ACTIVITIES

Days Are too Short for Us to Be Selfish

Up the steps into the halls of JHS go students, friendly and attentive, looking around for new and better ideas to share with their fellow workers. In the six short periods of a day, there is much for us to learn and accomplish. Observance is the key to understanding, so in noticing other methods, we often improve our own.

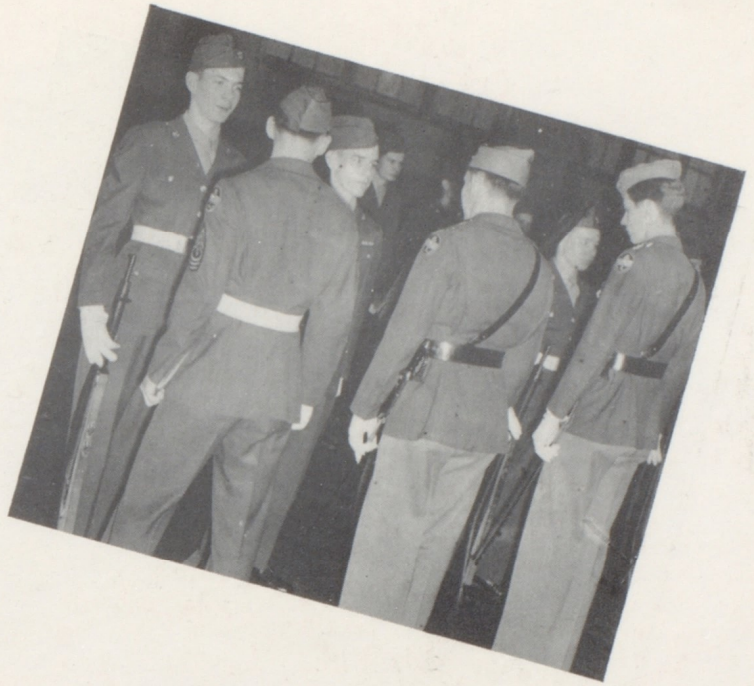

Our school elections were more exciting this year than they have been for many years. The halls were plastered with posters, signs and banners. Campaign slogans appeared in every room. Ingenuity and originality were displayed at every turn. In the picture at the left, Mary, Evelyn Jo, LaVerne, and Mary Ann are studying the posters on the bulletin board in the front hall.

It's Spyglass time again. On Thursdays after school everyone hurries to the front door to buy a Spyglass. We never know what it will be like—for each edition is different. The Halloween, Christmas, and Valentine issues were extra large—six pages instead of four. These issues and the St. Patrick paper were printed in their respective holiday colors. And that April Fool's Day issue with those up-side-down columns! . . . The initiative of the Spyglass staff has produced colorful, newsy, and educational newspapers.

All those shined shoes and glittering buttons are the result of hours of polishing in preparation for inspection on Monday. (To the right) Company D is being inspected by Van Greenwood and Kenny Priaulx. One by one the boys are eliminated until finally one officer and one cadet are left. At the end of the day there are eleven who have been rewarded for their efforts by being chosen orderly.

At the library we of Miss Robinson's senior English class find, during class-time, a wonderful opportunity to do research on our term papers. Preparing a bibliography, gleaning from many books facts pertinent to our subjects, and trying to form original ideas supply us with gigantic tasks. The library provides us with all our needs in solving our problems. In the quiet of this sanctum, we often accomplish more than we would otherwise.

Betty and David lead the cheerleaders in a yell during the Thanksgiving pep assembly. Our biggest football game of the season was anticipated with this clever assembly about "Three Magic Words"—words to beat Springfield. The spirit and enthusiasm shown in our pep assemblies were truly inspirational, thus spurring our Eagles on to victory.

Mr. Deatherage nods, and the seniors, dignified and proud, parade from assembly. This is one of the time-honored customs of JHS. The seniors leave—one row to the center, the next to the side—while the juniors and sophomores wait impatiently for their signal to leave. Then it is one mad dash in the direction of the cafeteria for lunch. Wilma, Richard, Marilyn, and Carter are a few of the first to leave, while Mary, Barry, Mary Sue, and Sara sit awaiting Mr. Deatherage's nod for the juniors to escape.

It's junior class play-time with make-up artists Jean, Kathryn, and David, applying their skill on Susie, Karole, and Charles just before curtain time. Our very able juniors staged a most successful play in "Dear Ruth." The excitement of producing a drama, whether we are on-stage or off, is always thrilling at our school.

Among the many tributes to the power-driven Eagles this year was the Sapphonian Literary Society's football banquet. Held in the school cafeteria, the affair was one of humorous speeches and good food. Looking at the picture, you can see that we were very attentive to the program. As the picture was snapped, Sue was giving us a very interesting reading. Following her, came Lorraine Miller, singing, and Patt True, playing a piano medley. The Sapphonian football banquet is an annual occasion.

Exciting Moments As We Look Around

School's out! When that 3:30 bell rings, we dash to our lockers and then out into what we consider "freedom," after seven hours of school life . . . (below) . . . After the basketball game with Maplewood High (Remember? We won by one point), we dashed out onto the court, excitedly congratulating our team. Many were the games when this performance was repeated, for our team often snatched victory from our opponents in the last few seconds of the struggle.

We Honor Our World War Heroes

A very colorful and impressive Armistice Day assembly was presented giving us scenes from World War II. The most impressive scene was the tableau which symbolized the raising of our flag over Iwo Jimo.

TO THINK

The Fountain of Wisdom is the Source of Power

Every day in our classes and in our other activities we must read and think. Our teachers are trained to help direct our thoughts to meet the problems we soon must face. In the above picture, Mr. Osborn is explaining the organization and the principles of American government. We all realize that well-educated citizens are the foundation of a strong and powerful nation, and we are striving to become competent in directing our destinies.

Miss Robinson's senior English class reads, thinks

We of this senior English class are busily studying our workbooks. Maurice has another question—he always has one that is of interest to the class. We have already written our term papers, read the Tale of Two Cities, studied and listened to records of Macbeth and analyzed short lyric and narrative poems. We expressed our originality through the writing of essays and the composing of poetry for the National Anthology Contest. Miss Robinson certainly knows how to keep us busy.. . . (below) . . . We are really trying to find a micro-organism. We are discovering a whole new world for ourselves. The star of our picture is protozoa; the producer is nature; we are the supporting cast. Our props are a microscope, slides, and a beam of light. This show goes on every day in the biology class in room 107. Mr. Mitchell is our censor.

Biologists glean knowledge in Mr. Mitchell's class

Mrs. Cooper's girls enjoy cooking

A fragrant aroma is constantly arising from the room in the lower hall, and it is not from the cafeteria, but from our cooking room. We learn the basic fundamentals of cooking and serving and put our knowledge to work. We fry chickens, make cakes, pies, salads, and cookies, and at Christmas-time we make delicious candies. Yes, we should be prepared to be future home makers. . . . (below) . . . We are kept busy typing, filing, and mimeographing. We are the secretaries of the faculty. In classes we type and mimeograph schedule cards, programs, and the latest bulletins from the office. During the music festival this year we were kept busy taking dictation in shorthand from the critics. Having a very efficient teacher, Miss Mitchell, we really did not have much trouble reading our shorthand. Our commercial classes prepare us for the business world.

Typists concentrate under Miss Mitchell's supervision

Our New Franklin Technical School

Pictured at the top is the $100,000 Franklin Technical School located at Thirteenth and Pearl Streets. The building has just been completed by the Federal Works Agency for the Joplin Public Schools Vocational Educational Department. It is one of the best vocational, instructional buildings in the Southwest. An invitational dedication was held at the school on Friday, March 19, at 8 p. m. Open house with classes in session demonstrating these various machines was held Sunday, March 21. In the picture below we see Mr. Wood, Superintendent of schools, at the extreme left with Dean Harlan Bryant of the Junior College and Mr. Harding, Mr. Christman, school board members. At the extreme right are our principal, Mr. Deatherage, architect, Mr. Manning, and head of the vocational department, Mr. Baker. In the foreground, center, to the left, is Mr. Mark Henderson, president of the school board, receiving from Milo H. Johnson of Kansas City, assistant division engineer of the F. W. A., the deed officially delivering the building to the board of education.

Mr. Kelly's skilled machinists enjoy their new environment

We Juniors, the Middlemen, have been outstanding in many events of the school year. In oratory we have excelled in debate. We had a most successful class play, Dear Ruth. Too, our election for class officers was one of the closest on record. Under the careful guidance of President Holmes we completed an unusually successful year.

We gave the "Most Honorable Seniors" a "run for their money" when we came in a very close second with our beautiful and charming JOPLIMO QUEEN CANDIDATE, Mary Sue Farrell. In Military we had many outstanding boys. Honors have been attained especially by our eight members of the rifle team. And lettermen in the athletics—we surely had more than the average junior class. In music there again we surpassed the former juniors with all of the first chair "holders." With all of these remarkable people why shouldn't we be looking forward with great expectations to the capturing of all honors in our Senior year.

Meet the Seniors of 1948

The Class of 1948 leaves Joplin High School this May with memories of fun-filled days. Thinking back we see ourselves in junior high school—sophisticated and important. Then high school—which completely knocked the wind out of our sails. But it didn't take us long to get our footing for the junior year.—Finally we reached that glorious day when we were truly seniors.—Now, we are on the last lap. Looking back on this year, we remember the football and basketball games, the elections, the society meetings, the Music Festival, the plays, assemblies, and—of course, our classes. We remember the hurry and scurry of that thirty minute lunch hour, the get-togethers in the halls. We remember those who were honored by being the president of this, chairman of that, star of something else, cheerleader, or editor. AND SO WE GIVE YOU

Seen, As Others See Us

Remember—a long, long time ago—during the month of December, 1947—we of the Joplimo secured the votes of the seniors in a class poll. Many have been the inquiries as to the results of our canvas—but silent and stern have been the replies. Now we release the data acquired and give to you the results of your voting. In later years, when you glance over your Joplimo, recalling the many happy experiences of school life, you can view these names as part of your carefree thoughts. For no matter what the future may bring, this poll below best tells you what you thought of your senior high friends in 1948.

Whoever said, "A teacher's day is eight hours long," wasn't thinking of our JHS faculty. With so many extra-curricular activities, our teachers often are at school until late hours or on trips with students to contests. Speech, debate, Spyglass, Joplino, music, military, athletics—all require additional hours and worries. Sometimes it seems as if we almost devote more of our time to these projects than to our studies, but without suitable grades we do not undertake outside activities. Our sponsors are at all times understanding and earnest in educating us for a better life.

Financing the yearbook provides worries for Mrs. Ulric and business manager, Bob.

A few members of the Spyglass staff—Kenneth, George, Margaret, Barry, and Shirley—with Miss Logan's assistance, help meet another deadline.

Mr. Edwards advises Maurice, Peggy, and Myral for the next debate tournament.

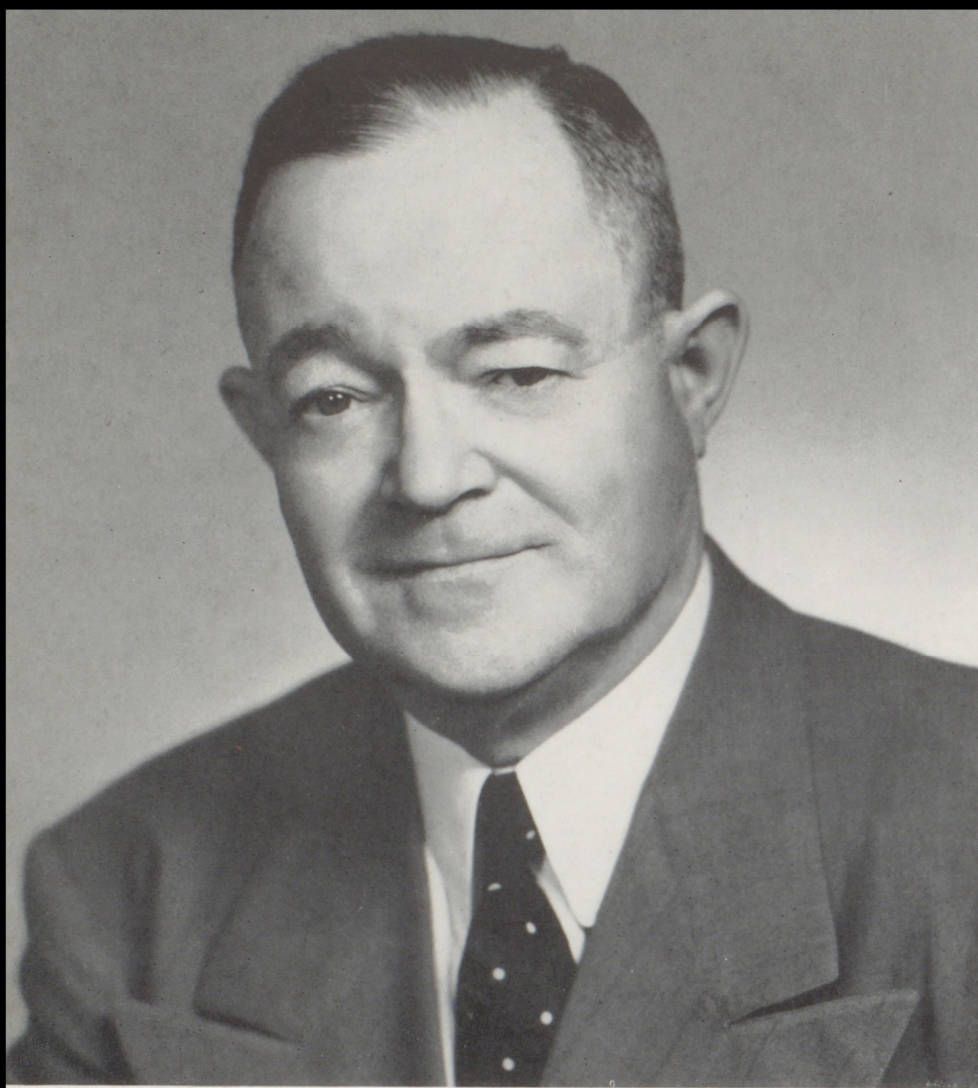

Mr. Pennington issues another excuse permit—this time to Edgar and Bob. (right) Mrs. Brown okays a permit, while Sue writes her excuse for absence. (left)

Principal Glen R. Deatherage

We seldom stop to think about the responsibilities connected with being the principal of a high school—fixing schedules, supervising teachers, planning assemblies, and counseling with the students. These and many other duties are handled most effectively by our very capable principal. Glen R., as we affectionately call him, arranges his time-schedule so that he finds moments to help us students with our personal problems. We often find him walking down the hall, hands behind his back, worrying about some important question. We truly appreciate the many hours Mr. Deatherage spends helping us solve these problems during our days in high school.

Our new Dean of Girls, Mrs. Brown, has been busy since the first of the year learning the names and faces of all the girls. She is patient and understanding—always ready to help us solve our problems . . . . The man behind the scenes is our Vice-Principal, Mr. Pennington. In addition to his regular duties, he assigns locks and lockers, supervises the distribution of books and supplies, and helps to keep order in the halls during the lunch hours.

MRS. BEULAH BROWN
Dean of Girls

ELMER PENNINGTON
Vice-Principal

Always diligently working for our Joplin schools is persevering Roi S. Wood, our superintendent. Attending civic club meetings, endeavoring to further every worthy interest of the public schools, and aiding the faculty and students with their problems, he is willing to co-operate with all of us. Participating in our assemblies, our superintendent gives us valuable aid in understanding the problems of the world. Active in state educational organizations, Mr. Wood is our able representative wherever he goes. He never tires in his efforts toward the welfare and betterment of our schools. He has distinguished himself through his ever-courteous manner, fine co-operation, and spirited interest in all our undertakings, and by so doing, he has won the respect of students and teachers alike.

Superintendent Roi S. Wood

The school board members give unselfishly of their time. It takes foresight, hard work, and co-operation to keep our schools in perfect harmony. We are indebted to them for their time and patience in managing our schools.

Success and Youth are Priceless

Working, on publications, in military, or in sports, is always crowned with some celebration of the year's accomplishments. Our over-powering football Eagles completed the season with their traditional football dance. Achieving a goal is always a pleasure in itself, but additional enjoyment is ours when we are given a little time to play.

PAUL ARROWOOD

Keen competition and strict regulations mark the military department of JHS. Boys in the Reserve Officers' Training Corps benefit from the military lessons and habits. The cadets learn neatness and cleanliness of general appearance, as well as how to take orders. To advance in an R. O. T. C. unit a cadet must adhere to every phase of military life. Cadet Colonel Paul Arrowood was chosen on the basis of his scholarship, leadership, and military ableness. For the first time in Joplin's military history, four cadets were advanced to the rank of lieutenant colonel—Marvin Boyd, John Montgomery, Jimmy Porter, and Kenneth Priaulx. Leadership experienced in this field is training for leadership in the future.

On a sultry, hot August afternoon we first reported to register and receive our wool R. O. T. C. uniforms. That was the beginning of polishing buttons and shining shoes which aid so much in making orderly. Orderly—that little red and green braid worn on your shoulder which means so much to every cadet. Once every week on Monday each of us gets a try for the orderly, and a few of us make it. It is, nevertheless, our ultimate goal, for it signifies the best cadet of the week from each company. As school got under way in September, we juniors and seniors were well along on the road to success, or so we thought when we watched the neophytes. With such representatives as the rifle team and the flashlight squad that performed between halves of the basketball games, we felt proud as punch. A dance was held January 2nd which raised funds for the Rifle Team to enable them to make trips to compete in the various matches listed at the right. To climax our year of hard work, a most spectacular Military Ball was held for all cadets and their dates.

Joplimo Work Is A Pleasure

Evelyn and JoAnne, Co-Editors—Bob, Business Manager

Self-supporting and award-winning, our Joplimo is a symbol of Joplin's high standards. Advertising and organization fees provide the bulk of our finances. A new project this year was the selling of name cards to seniors for exchanging and for invitations. Our Student Directory, two years old now, contains all our names, addresses, and phone numbers. A worthwhile supplement to the Joplimo, the directory contained all advertising which formerly appeared at the close of the annual. The Scholastic Editor, national magazine for high school publications, featured an article by Mrs. Ulrici, exploiting our directory as a worthwhile money-saver.

Each year the goal of the staff is an All-American yearbook as judged by the National Scholastic Press Association. Using the scorebook of the prior year, we try to correct mistakes of the year before so as to make a better book. That day in November when we receive our judgment of the Joplimo's rating is the climax of our anxiety. Working the year round, we begin immediately after the close of school, planning the theme for next year's book. The Joplimo is planned and executed entirely by the editors, editorialists, and artists with the aid of our typists and sponsor. Photography is both student and professional. Our business manager and ad salesmen work entirely on the student directory with the aid of the editorialists in preparing the editorial content. Our engraver, Burger-Baird, being located in Kansas City, provides us with opportunities to travel in behalf of "the Book." Experience gained in working closely with business firms, printer, and engraver has proved very valuable to us in our preparation to meet the world. We put all we had into our 1948 Joplimo. We only wish we could have done more.

The Spyglass Covers the News

The Joplin Spyglass makes its appearance every two weeks. Thursday evening after school the Spyglass is on sale at the front door and is distributed in the home rooms Friday morning. Mary Ann Moore (left above) and Margaret Deatherage (right), co-business managers, supervise the ad sales so that the paper can be entirely self-supporting. Loretta Gullette (center) plans layouts, makes assignments, and carries out the hundred and one other tasks attached to an editorship. The journalism class was in charge of several issues this year. Miss Annie Lee Logan supervises the editorial department, while Mr. Douglas Mitchell oversees the student financiers.

A Clearing-house for Student Problems

"The meeting will please come to order," are the words which so often come from our silver-tongued orator, Roy Beavers, who was chosen to head the Student Council. Beside him is secretary, Margaret Deatherage, who "reads the minutes of the previous meeting." As the student body's choice, Roy and Margaret have represented us well in our every project.

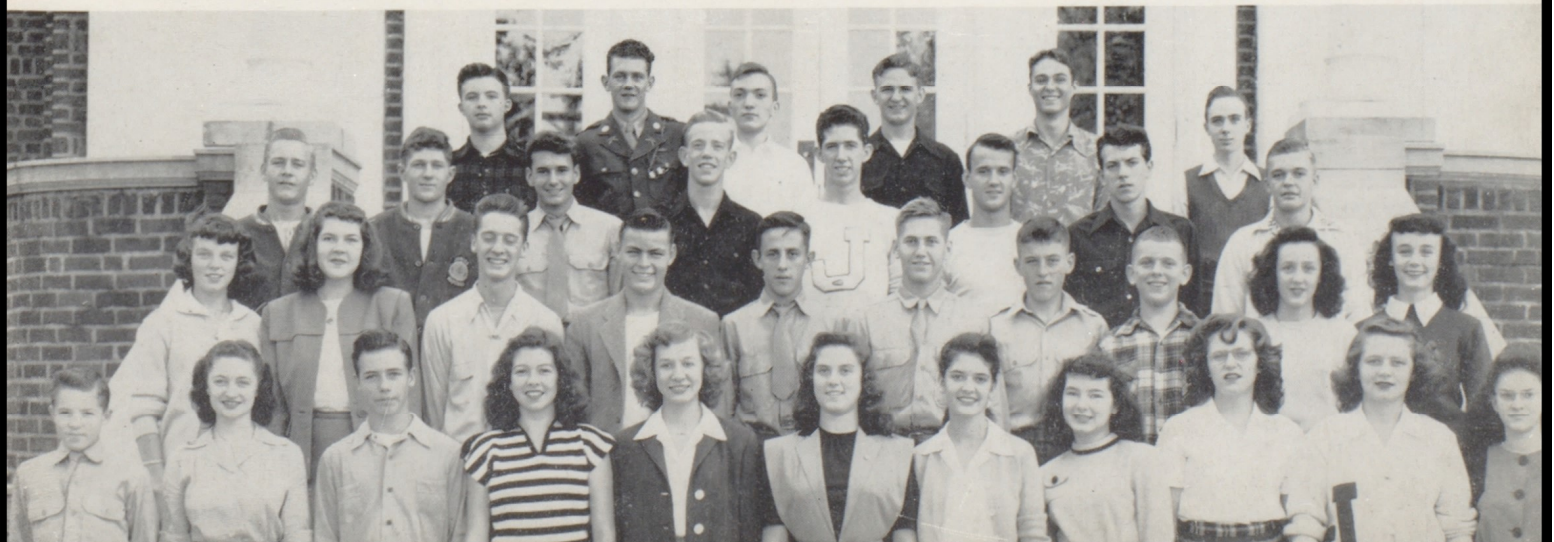

After a hotly conducted election with all of the aspects of an actual national election with campaign slogans, banners, and speeches, we began another busy year with Roy as our "head" and Margaret as his assistant. First, we started the ball rolling by holding our Annual Football Dance. Following this, in December, we lent a helping hand to the Salvation Army by encouraging the Student Body to bring food and clothing for the needy. In the second semester we began to have hourly locker checks, and although some students thought this to be a nuisance, it curtailed the number of lost articles. During the basketball season we worked with the Hi-Y in distributing the programs for the games. Yes, we look back with pride on another busy year.

It was a hard-working pep squad who led us in so many yells and sponsored those trips to out-of-town games. Always endeavoring to find something original, they presented us with two of the most different assemblies this year. Everyone enjoyed the girls masquerading as football players, and the Thanksgiving pep assembly. The climax of the football season was our annual rose assembly, when each Eagle, as well as the cheerleaders, was presented a rose to give to his girl. Our football team worked hard, individually and co-operatively, developing teamwork to the "nth" degree. The net result was only one defeat—that by approximately two feet. Remember that Tulsa Will Rogers game? — Over 500 of us traveled that 130 miles to see what was probably the most thrilling tussle of the season. Losing by only five points, we were a dejected group coming back to Joplin that night; but it provided our team with the spirit to defeat the remaining teams on our schedule.

Bill and Edgar give their roses to Barbara and Eleanor.

Beginning our season with Pittsburg who defeated us in '46, it was an extreme pleasure to down the Dragons 7 to 0. Traveling to Miami, the team was cheered on to victory by many Joplin rooters as well as an improvised band playing stirring marches. Carthage, an old rival, came to Joplin only to be turned back 19 to 0, one of their few losses of the season. Since Coach "Doc" Baker, (continued on page fifty-seven.)

formerly our assistant coach, has taken over the Tigers, rivalry has ceased somewhat. The following week, our Eagles continued their advance by dropping Nevada 37 to 0. Unscored upon, we ventured down to Monett, for the first battle in several years, to be scored upon, but not defeated, 25 to 12. A much-dreaded game, later rated as our most thrilling, was the tussle with Van Buren, but we again came out on top, 13 to 7. Journeying to Parsons, another new eleven on our '47 schedule, we succeeded in winning, 25 to 7. With only three games left on the program, we were beginning to anticipate the prospect of an undefeated season. Looming before us was that inevitable Tulsa Will Rogers game. In '46 they had humiliated us by a severe defeat. We were yearning for revenge. Busses were chartered and down we traveled, only to view our defeat. In the last few seconds of play we had the ball, but lost it on the two-yard line, going down 18 to 13. With sadness and determination in our hearts, we went to Springdale to see our triumphant Eagles once more resume their winning streak, 21 to 7. All that remained was the greatest game of the year with the Springfield Bulldogs. Winning would suffice our loss of an undefeated season. Remember that sunny Thanksgiving afternoon? — The stadium was packed to overflowing — tension was in the air. In their new plastic helmets, our Eagles looked magnified, for they were not such a large team in weight. Fulfilling our desire, we most certainly trounced those vicious-looking Bulldogs throughout the game, ending with a score of 13 to 0. A grand season and a grand team we shall never forget was ours of the fall of '47.

Teamwork Made Those Baskets

A Team

COACH, RUSSELL KAMINSKY

Our goal-makers, who were in the "A" class, at the end of the season, elected Edgar Craig and John Ivie (both two-year lettermen) as their co-captains. No one member of the team outshone any of the others. Instead, teamwork was their by-word. Wherever they went, they were all for one and one for all in victory and defeat. Those on the "B" team worked mostly to gain experience to qualify for the first team next year. We remember sitting through their games while waiting for the big event to start.

B Team

COACH, PHILLIP CRAWFORD

Kneeling: Bob Jackson, Jack Perry, Harold Powley.

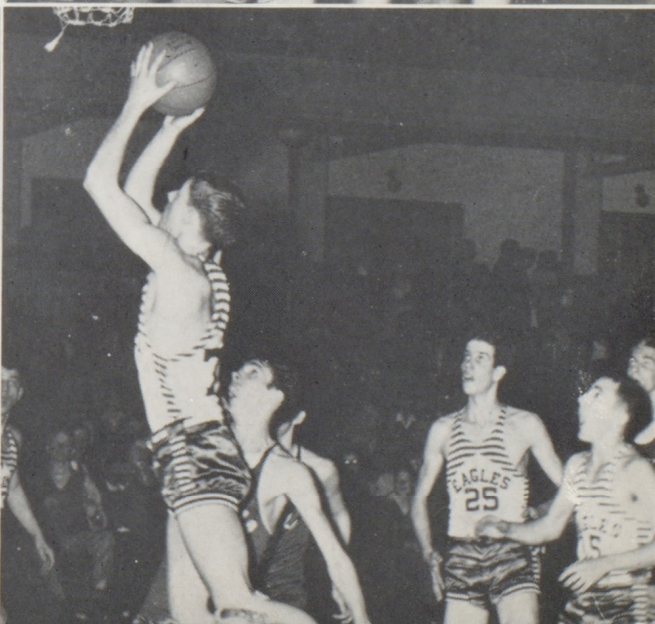

As the season proved, our basketball players were a courageous lot, surviving victory many times only to be downtrodden in their turn. With only two remaining lettermen, Kaminisky took his boys to Miami to win 35 to 31. Next, we ventured over to Carthage to see our Eagles triumph 43 to 36. Our first home game was eagerly awaited. We watched Columbus go down, 58 to 42, over at Memorial Hall. Then, came a most honored visitor, Maplewood High. Sitting on the edge of our seats throughout every second of the game, we saw our Eagles come from behind to win 36 to 35. But that wasn't enough. We followed it up with a bare margin over those rival Springfield Bulldogs, 30 to 28. We were sitting on top of the world! Columbus, for the second time, went down before our aggressive team (27 to 15). Then came that week of three out-of-town games—a tournament at Springfield (we lost out there) and a trip to Pittsburg only to be defeated (40 to 28.) That Kansas quintet was just too much for us, because, after we had won from Coffeyville and Parsons, Pittsburg again stripped us of victory. (continued on page 60).

Another free throw for the Eagles against the Pittsburg Dragons. Eddie Deatherage makes it good for one point, but that was not quite enough to put us ahead. (righthand corner) The Springfield Bulldogs could not stop John Ivie's field goals as he puts the Eagles ahead to win.

The scene is Memorial Hall. The Joplin Eagles are playing against Parsons, Kansas. Bob Cox tries for a basket, but is fouled and the ball is thrown wild...

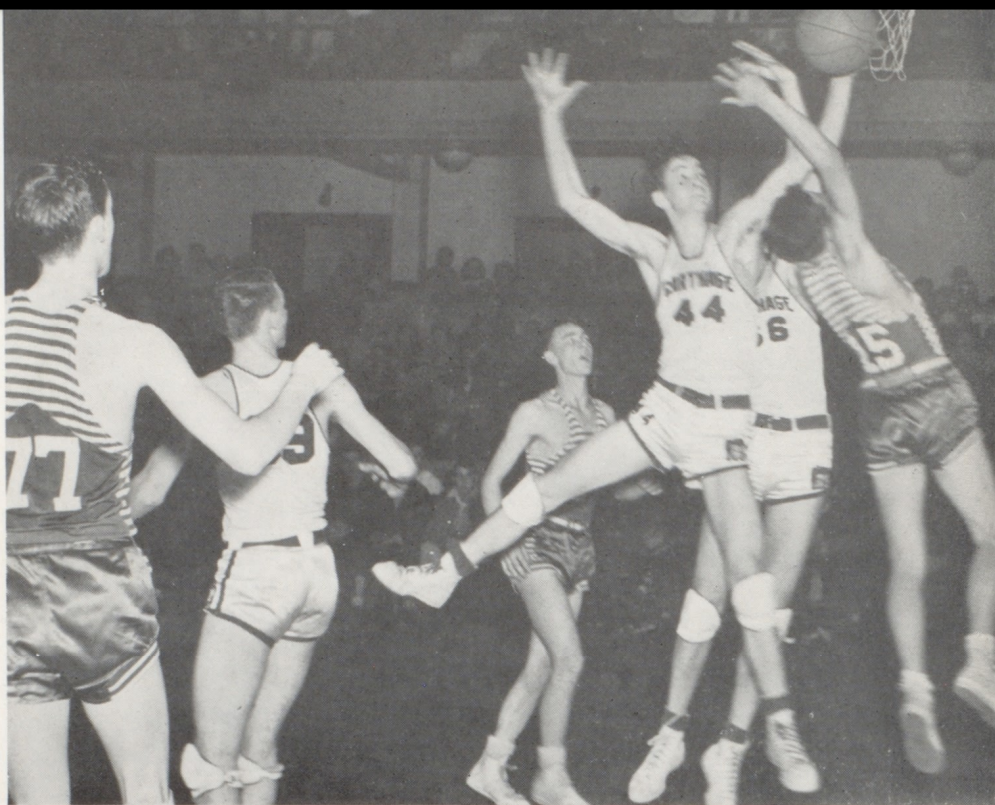

The scene changes. With the same background, but a different team, Bob Cox makes a goal for the Eagles against Maplewood.

Carthage Tiger 44 tries desperately to take the ball away from the Eagles in the last few seconds of play. Bob Cox is trying for the basket.

Next came our second meet with those Carthage Tigers, and once more they were the underdogs, the score being 39 to 27. Journeying to Springfield for the annual Greenwood Tournament, our Eagles were at their best, coming out the champion team with a single point over Ava, 40-39. Another trophy was added to our case in the front hall. (continued on next page)

Grant Derfelt and a Warrior from St. Peter's wait for the ball to come down after a toss-up by the referee.

The last game on our regular schedule was with the Springfield Bulldogs on their home court. According to statistics, we should have won—but you can never depend upon data when an Eagle meets a Bulldog. Swinging back and forth, the score came out in favor of Springfield (29 to 27). Now came the sub-regional leading up to the state contest. With Joplin seeded first, we were not very worried that first night. Pitted against St. Peter's of Joplin, we were sure of a victory. The news of a defeat, ending our basketball season, was hard to take. But defeat always comes side by side with victory, and we endured the regional at our own Memorial Hall, although we couldn't participate. We shall always remember the '48 Eagles as a fighting team, even in defeat.

The overshadowed second-string boys, who preceded our A team in every game, were a representation of what was to come. They had a good season of 6 wins and 7 losses, while gaining experience to qualify for the '49 squad.

E. L. Belkam, number 14, makes a field goal in winning from the Pittsburg B team . . . Robert Fay, number 13 on the B team, sends the ball out of sight but into the basket against the St. Peter's Warriors.

The track team of '48 was just beginning to warm up as our book went to press. All meets were scheduled for April and May. Returning lettermen, however, anticipated a good season. In following years, the track season of the previous year will be covered. Our boys excel in high and low hurdles, dashes, mile-run, broad jumps, pole-vaulting, high jumps, and discus-throws. . . . During the summer of '47, baseball was the sport for most of the JHS youth. The Robert S. Thurman American Legion Post sponsored a team of boys under seventeen years to play against similar teams of neighbouring towns. At the state tournament they placed second after meeting the better teams from all over the state.

G. A. A.'s Swing Into Line

We, the girls of JHS, take part in every available recreation. We have the Girls' Athletic Association which awards us letters for hiking, swimming, cheerleading, tennis, and other sports. This is the first year for G. A. A. in JHS. We have accepted it with alacrity, for it is a representation of the girls' sports in a school famous for boys' sports. Besides learning to play, we study home nursing under the supervision of a registered nurse. A realization that our activities in gym will make us more physically fit adds to the enjoyment of our two-hour a week course. At basketball games, between halves, we have an opportunity to demonstrate the various dances we have learned. We play tennis, badminton, baseball, soccer, basketball, volley ball, and golf. This year we participated in Play Day both at Pittsburg and at the Joplin Junior College. (to the right) Play Day at Pittsburg found Joplin girls active in all the games. We joined with girls from other towns in playing an exciting game of hit-pin baseball. Building a pyramid always is fun while testing your equilibrium. To the right Betty Stokes, Marilyn Green, Lucille Piha, Marilyn Jacobs, Helen Scheurich, Treva Warden, Elaine Stowell, Glenna Dean Witzansky, and Pat Miller try a regular pyramid. In our intra-mural volley ball tournaments we have some keen competition. Preparation for these games often includes playing against boys in gaining experience. These games are played at a time too late to appear in the yearbook.

During the regular gym classes we take setting-up exercises (right) to keep our muscles in good tone. It is so much fun to build a suspension pyramid (lower right). By participating in all these activities, we learn the art of good sportsmanship and of playing according to the rules of any game. Mrs. Charlotte Creach, our teacher, sets requirements which, if met, give us a certain number of points. Thus, we are graded on a point system. Physical and mental hygiene improves our outlook on life.

The Soul Alone Understands These Arts

We live in a world of dreams. Some dreams carry us into the world of dramatics where we express ourselves in words and actions. Our junior and senior class plays were action-packed; with everyone memorizing and enjoying readings, taking part in one-act plays, presenting a program on one of the local radio stations, or working on the stage crew, the remainder of the speech department was busy. Debate classes give us a chance to express our ideas. Everyone has a chance to debate, either in class or in the society contests. Other dreams take us into a realm of music where harmony and rhythm express our emotions. Our music organizations are larger this year than they have been in several years. Music is always a source of relaxation and pleasure. We all dream of the Military Ball with its thrilling grand march and gorgeous formals. Pictured above is the dream come true—our always beautiful Joplimo Queen coronation—the culmination of weeks of campaigning, working, and worrying. Youth and its enthusiasm make all these dreams come true.

Band

From eight o'clock in the morning, all through first hour, under the guidance of "Chief" Coulter, we work our hardest to bring forth music for assemblies, football and basketball games, and concerts. All of this hard work was not in vain, however, because we were rewarded by the attentive attitude of our audience at the concert here on January 23. This was the first time Joplin and Springfield ever combined into one band. After Springfield had played several numbers, the two bands combined and each director conducted three selections. Members of the band and orchestra "housed" the Springfield participants. This gave us an opportunity to become better acquainted with our long-standing rivals. The following week we made a visit to Springfield. Again, during the Music Festival, we had the opportunity to combine our skill with other competitors as several bands of the district were brought together under one conductor. Our trip to Columbia for the State Contest comes so late that the JOPLIMO cannot record the outcome, but we always ranked high and know that we will do as well this year.

During the sixth hour and on Monday evenings, music fills the air, and everyone knows that it is the orchestra striving for perfection. We gave our first performances in the assemblies at the junior high schools. The real results of this hard work was shown at our Anniversary Concert given February 13th. Following the concert, preparations were made for the Music Festival early in March. At the final concert of the festival we were honored with having Mr. George Waln, clarinetist, and Mr. L. E. Watters, pianist, as our soloists. Everyone enjoyed Mr. Waln's "Canzonetta" and Mr. Watters' "Rhapsody in Blue." After the Music Festival we settled back to more hard work in readiness for the State Contest. We scheduled a Pre-Contest Concert in April after the yearbook went to press. This is to be used as a try-out for the contest. Bands, orchestras, choirs, and soloists from all over the state gather to find just how they rank. So we orchestra people along with the band shall journey to Columbia to find our place as musicians.

After weeks of rehearsing until late at night, hours spent memorizing lines and spare time spent chasing after costumes and properties, the evening arrived — Miss Eckelman produced another hit. The auditorium was packed as the curtains opened on Dora, the colored maid, setting the table for breakfast. As the play unfolded, we find that Miriam, the younger sister, has written letters to service men to raise their morale, using Ruth's picture and name. One by one they come home intent on marrying Ruth. The play ends with Ruth marrying William Seawright. The junior class produced another enjoyable comedy.

The seniors worked hard to get the first act of their play ready to take to contest March 26 and April 2. The plot of "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay" concerns two young college girls who go to Paris to study acting, getting involved in many escapades. Preparing the play required more than several hours practice each day. There are make-up committees, properties, costumes, publicity, stage crew, and scenery artists. We all enjoyed every minute of preparing the senior class play for presentation.

Frank, Chuck, Marvin and Keith—members of our efficient stage crew in a typical scene, are preparing the stage props for another of many special programs, such as a play, coronation, or an assembly.

Thespians

Among the many Thespians we have actors, orators, and make-up artists. Points are received by working on committees, by being in class plays, by participating in assemblies or by giving readings. One may become a one, two, three, or four star and if enough points are collected one may finally become an all-star Thespian. Needless to say, this is everyone's goal.

Jean Schultz and Patsy Miller were announced at the senior class play as the outstanding Thespians of the year.

Representing the affirmative, Crystal Hawes gives her argument for the requirement of arbitration in labor disputes, while her partner, Roy Beavers, nods emphasis to her words. Margaret Deatherage and Richard Wommack (to the right) await their turn to refute the ideas presented by the affirmative. Debates such as these between our own teams afford experience for challenging tournament teams.

NATIONAL FORENSIC LEAGUE

Resolved: That we shall do our best in every debate in which we participate. This is what constituted the aim of every debate student. "Resolved: That the federal government should require arbitration of labor disputes in all basic American industries" was the question chosen by the National Forensic League officials for all high schools belonging to the organization. After the regular debate season was ended, we sponsored the intra-society debate tournament. In this manner we can uncover talent which has lain unknown. As soon as one debate season is completed, we look toward the future—seeking teams for next year.

We Introduce to You the Attendants...

Junior Attendant
Mary Sue Farrell

Mary Sue, sweet, popular, and attractive, is known to all of us, especially through her musical activities. Her winning ways have procured several honors for her, including Honorary Cadet Lieutenant Colonel. For the second time, she has been elected by her class as their queen candidate. Supporting her nomination, they have brought many worries to the seniors before the results of the elections were announced. Johnny Holmes served as her capable manager. As a member of the orchestra, Drum Corps, Solo and Ensemble Club, Olympiad Literary Society, and Thespians, Mary Sue well deserves all praise given her by her classmates.

Sophomore Attendant
Betty Fanning

Smiling throughout, Betty began her high school "with a bang." As a sophomore cheerleader, she soon became known to her classmates. The sophomore ROTC boys elected her as their representative with the rank of Honorary Cadet Major. The Sapphonian Literary Society claims this pretty and charming student as a member. With this record behind her at the time of the Joplimo queen election, she was chosen by her sophomore class as their candidate. In selecting Harold Call as her business manager, Betty supplied herself with a persevering go-getter. She was a charming addition to our beautiful coronation ceremony.

...and Queen of the 1948 Joplimo

Miss
Marty
Fletcher

Martha, known to everyone as Marty, reigned over the Joplimo Queen coronation assembly with dignity and poise. Her cheerful smile, sincere and natural, is known all over the school. As a cheerleader, president of the Sapphonian Literary Society, and a member of the newly-formed Girls' Athletic Association, she is known for her earnest work in everything she undertakes. Chosen as the senior candidate, Marty was modest about the campaigning going on in every corner of the school. In a beautiful setting of a crown-shaped throne of roses, Marty was crowned Queen by her business manager, Bob Hinkle. As the orchestra played "This Will Be My Shining Hour," we knew this was truly Marty's "shining hour."

Triumphant Cadets Present the Military Ball

Many glowing accounts have been written about the military balls of the past years. None of them quite catch the feeling of excitement which is in the air from the time the grand march starts until the last note is played. This year's ball seemed especially wonderful. The beautiful gowns, the gleaming sabers, and the dreamy music made this an evening never to be forgotten. Honorary Cadet Lieutenant Colonel Mary Sue Farrell and Cadet Colonel Paul Arrowood; Loretta Gullette and Cadet Lieutenant Colonel Marvin Boyd were the leaders in the Grand March. The cadets followed according to rank in their respective battalions. Everyone enjoyed dancing until 11:30. This annual occasion was viewed by crowds from the balcony. Exciting and magnificent, the ball was a fitting climax to the military year.

Gavel and Quill: Philogians Entertain Us

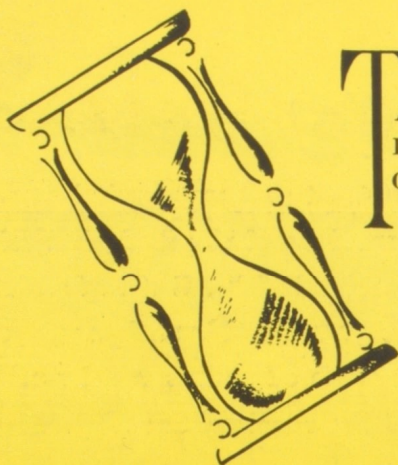

Hilarious and truly vaudeville in style, the Gavel and Quill assembly included everything from a German band playing and singing "In Der Feuer's Face" to a male chorus line dancing the can-can. Keith Harris appeared at intervals, as master of ceremonies, with a joke for the audience's enjoyment. Ned Jackson's reading, "The Amateur Hour, the Barber-shop Quartet, the black-face duet, and Crooner Wommack's "Temptation" revealed much humorous talent. Swami Nolan's predictions and their enactment proved amusing. We hardly recognized Waldo Fiant "Clothed" in a bird cage. The finale (pictured above) featuring "Good Night, Ladies" received a thunderous applause revealing our approval.

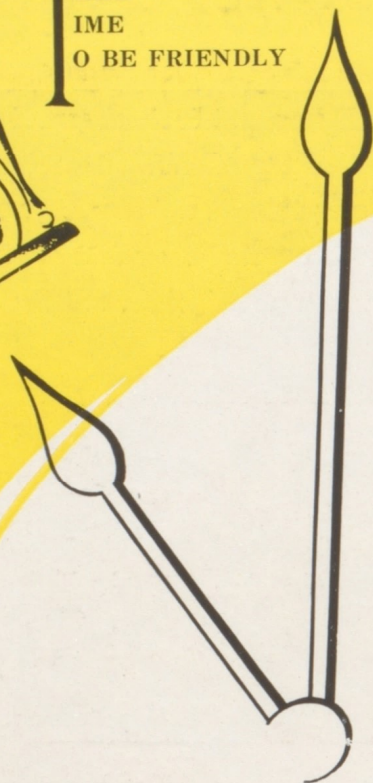

. . . (below) The following week the Philogians presented their assembly in "Harlem Haven." Ealine Stowell, mistress of ceremonies, introduced the following numbers: the Four Leaf Clover Twins (Mary Ann Sigars and Joan Gatewood), "Lena" Johnson, the Philogian Hot Shots (Viola Brunkhorst, Mary Cole, Shirley Cooper, Rosalie Nenninger, and Louise Prewett), Sambo and Coco (Colleen Marshall and Joyce Whipple), and Cindy Lou (Joan Gatewood). At this point the program was interrupted by Elsie, the cow, and the entire cast was needed to get her off the stage. The assembly was an annual production of the Philogian literary society.

Friendliness and Laughter Solicit Happiness

During the lunch hours we congregate in the halls to laugh and to discuss all the current topics. Society meetings and after-school hours provide friends with time to plan coming events. Laughter is symbolic of youth, and our halls resound with merriment between classes. To be able to enjoy ourselves while learning is a big step on the road to happiness.

We Build Character; We Develop Culture

The societies began the 1947-48 school year with a round of mixers. These varied from hayrides and picnics to teas. Everyone had fun, and the sophomores had a chance to become acquainted with the "oldtimers" of JHS. Soon several of the societies began planning assembly programs. The Gavel and Quill was the first to present a program. They kept us all in hysterics with a vaudeville show and no one knew from one minute to the next what might happen. The following week the Philogians presented a minstrel show. In April the defending champions of last year's society debate tournament, the L. C. F.'s, met the challengers of this year—affirmative and negative teams from each society. The finals were not reached before the Joplino went to press. The debates take place before classes with faculty members as judges. No experienced debater may take part in this war of words. The objective of the tournament is to find new talent in debating. To complete the year's activities each society held either a dance or a party—an exciting end to an exciting year.

A familiar announcement was certain to be read in each classroom every Thursday. It ran like this, "Hi-Y breakfast Friday morning, 7:30, at the Y. M. C. A. Good eats. Good program. Make your reservation with Joe Garbacz, Rod Meredith, or Jimmy Porter." Oh! My! "Rise up so early in the morn—", but it was well worth the effort. Tempting breakfasts of ham and eggs, hot cereals and milk, or pancakes, awaited us. During these feasts, animated conversations developed along the familiar lines of school and current events. Having finished eating, we settled back for a business meeting. Mayor L. Russell McKee, Dr. J. Ruskin Howe, and Dr. Ben Morris Ridpath were among our principal speakers. Our two main projects for the year were the programs we had printed for the basketball games and the dances held after the games. Money derived from these programs was given to the World Fellowship Fund. All of us were agreed that the dances held at the Y. M. C. A. were a supreme way to celebrate our athletic victories. We surely enjoyed ourselves. These dances were for students only and, of course, sponsors of senior high. A nominal fee of ten cents per person was charged. A bamboo hut was placed outside of the door for the purpose of selling tickets, but, because of the enormous crowds, we are afraid, many were swept into the room as free guests. To make the evening more interesting the girls often wore jeans to have free movement in the "hurdle dance"—a dance enjoyed by all. Music was provided by records and by the Melody Masters ( a band made up of high school musicians). All these Hi-Y activities afforded the boys many pleasures.

We Y-Teens are trying to promote fellowship and good will. We work for closer relationship between girls of Europe and ourselves. Y-Teens make friends all over the world. One of our most important activities was sending Care packages to Europe. Throughout the school year the Y-Teens have been sponsoring a "Walk-A-Mile" program, saving our car-fare money for the youth in Europe. Many interesting programs have been held at our assemblies. One of these programs was "Around the Clock in Fashions." We truly enjoyed this fashion parade. The "Truth and Consequences" and the "Amateur Hour" program were outstanding, too. A very impressive pageant culminated Religious Emphasis Week—We have really adhered to our theme this year, "To find and give the best."

We were the Bosses at the State Capitol

Girls' State

An experience which none of us will ever forget was our trip to Girls' and Boys' State. It was a glorious week with assemblies, classes, campaigns, games and was climaxed by a trip to Jefferson City where we presided in our respective offices. We from Joplin were certainly fortunate in being elected to places of honor. Above, left to right: Jo Anne, State Senator; Gloria, County Judge; Patt, Adjutant General; Sue, State Representative; Billie Ann, City Attorney; Betty, City Health Commissioner; Pat, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court; Lois Jane, Justice of the Supreme Court; Celia Braeckel, State Representative. Below, left to right: Lee, State Representative; Kenneth, Assistant Attorney General; John I., County Attorney; John M., Superintendent of the State Patrol; Richard, State Senator; Roy, Attorney General; Paul, Assistant Attorney General; Jimmy State Patrol; Tom, County Sheriff; Bob, Captain of the State Patrol; Clark, Assistant Attorney General.

Boys' State

We promote friendship

The grand and glorious occasion of the Rose Assembly affords Johnny the pleasure of giving Shirley his token—(second picture down) Aspiring members shoot their best, trying to qualify for the Rifle Team. The Armory out at Lafayette school is the scene of trial many Wednesday evenings. Sergeant Magee aids Charles, Bob, and Frank in aiming for the bull's-eye—(third picture down) Pat, Kathryn, Rosemary, and Marilyn primp after a hard work-out in gym class. Mrs. Creach requires a shower, but we never fuss about putting on make-up.

We Pass In Review...

Those ingenious campaign posters during student elections attracted widespread interest. Stanley and Chuck are admiring the pictures of prospective candidates for student offices—Our Joplimo Queen and her manager, Marty and Bob, are snapped just after the crowning ceremony amid the roses and crown-shaped throne—Our sorority and society pledges stand among the election decorations waiting for their members—The D.M.E.'s supported candidates not only by signs, but also with musical rallies. It got results, too—Paul, Ned, and Richard leave school (probably on their way to a D.M.E. get-together at Al's.) Leaders in JHS, they are able representatives of the music department—The debaters, Maurice, Mary, Jimmie, Larry, Myral, Shirley, and Peggy, are off on another trip to defend Joplin's interests — Mary Jac, David, and Betty are set to start the cheerleaders in leading the crowds in the stadium to support our gridiron heroes—Lee was one of the few who took their lunch hour leisurely. Too bad he had to move to Springfield—Mickey and Bob hunt for references in our school library which aided so many of us in preparing so many lessons.

...with High-lights of the Year

Gloria, Bob, Chuck, and Frank are in line to receive their ballots to vote during election. Maurice serves as a judge, seeing that no "stuffing" of the ballot-box is done—During the teachers' convention, Mr. Osborn inspects an encyclopedia at one of the book booths—Montie Sanders converses with Mr. Galloway about canvassing the book salesmen for advertisements during the convention—Norma Jean, Mary Sue, Mary Ann, and Sara Lou are waiting the arrival of teachers to check their wraps during a session of the convention—Halfback Bob Brodman smiles his winning grin as he loafis during his lunch hour—An engraving error takes John McDonald off the stage in "Dear Ruth" and places him in the hall with Mr. White and Mr. Thomas at the information desk during the Southwest Missouri State teachers' convention — Basketball spectators Martha Jean, Mary Sue, and Mary are startled by the camera during a thrilling battle at Memorial Hall —Paul makes his bid for student council president during election proceedings.

Happy-go-lucky... Serious... Laughing

Mr. Deatherage assists Miss Best in opening her box of roses from her home room, just before she left us—Rubinoff (without his violin) autographs programs after his brilliant performance at the Memorial Hall. Remember his entertaining us in assembly?—On parade between halves of the Thanksgiving football game with Springfield, the military gives a precise performance as they march before the reviewing staff—There is a scramble for the ball during a breath-taking moment of the Turkey Day game before a stadium packed with crowds — Lois and Mary are ready to take their places on the stage for the Christmas assembly in the choral-reading group —During the lunch hours, a crowd of students jam the hall waiting to vote for their favorite candidates—At lunch-time we must wait in that seemingly endless line before we reach the food in the cafeteria. Lucky Shirley is already eating—Tradition marks the annual rose assembly. Roy advances to receive his rose from either Mary Jac or Betty.

...Yes, Memories We Shall Never Forget

The busses await the arrival of the cheerleaders, Ever-Ready rifle team, and Drum Corps to proceed to Tulsa to witness the spectacular gridiron battle—Mr. Osborn smilingly awaits a ride home after a hard day of teaching us—Our boys stage that impressive Iwo Jima scene for the Armistice Day program—Uncle Sam (David Smith to us) tells of the outstanding feats of our military forces—George, Maurice, Crystal, and Peggy (with Mr. Edward's assistance) give the radio audience a touch of JHS debating—David Winston, Jim Ramsay, Eddie Deatherage, and Bob Coles are caught unaware on their way to Al's—Elaine and Janet go sedately on their way to lunch—Working ardently on their studies, Jeanette and Mary Margaret are hurrying to finish their assignment—Margaret and Marty enjoy their talk and lunch in the cafeteria—The Ever-Ready rifle team parades for the spectators at a night football game — Brad and Richard lower the flag as school is dismissed. Mary Lou doesn't seem to be helping much.

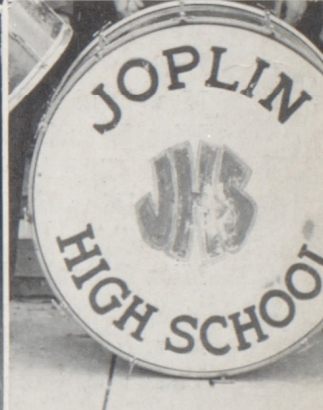

Claude, Tommy, and Frank seem to be studying their assignments before entering class—Gale and Dale, or is it Dale and Gale, enjoy a portion of their lunch hour away from the building across the street—Mary, Barbara, Sue, and Patty enjoy their books outside the school building—Ready! Aim! Fire! Out at Lafayette range the rifle team candidates, Muryl, Fred, Frank, and Dick shoot their best—Kemp Owen smiles from his place in the band during assembly—Sergeant Magee inspects the company's drilling as they forward march—Margaret and Louise fiddle away with the orchestra at the Junior class play—A welcome visitor attends our assembly. Is he snooping for more education?—Mary, Jimmie, Myral, and Shirley represented JHS in the Springfield debate tournament—Betty Jean, Sue, and Evelyn find something amusing while eating lunch in the cafeteria—Kathryn and Walta find refreshment at the "Crown" after school hours—The 3:30 bell is a welcome sound to all of us. We take advantage of it by rushing out the north door as hurriedly as possible.

The cheerleaders came through again with a most hilarious assembly during which girls masqueraded as football players. Referee Sue Grant is rushing toward the scene of battle while Frank, Mary Jac, and Marty lead the spectators in a yell — Football season finds Kenney, Bill, Edgar, and Bob in the hall discussing the latest game—Football pep rally time finds the cheerleaders and rooters hunting wood to build a bonfire—The fire is roaring, and Chuck takes a high leap over—Kathryn, Marilyn, Walta, and Glenna Dean pile into the Witzansky auto while celebrating the coming game—Symbol of the JHS marching band is our battered and beaten bass drum—The game is over; the crowd piles out of Junge stadium; it was a victorious game over Springfield; We are happy—We see a view of the game from the spectator's angle as the opposing teams line up—Teddy, Patt, Margie, and Jacque are enjoying the Eagle's trouncing of their first opponent, Pittsburg — Mary Jac, David, and Betty lead the crowds in clapping to the rhythm of the military band.

We are guided . . .

A teacher's work is never done.

It goes on from sun to sun.

How descriptive of the JHS faculty are these words. From sun-up to sundown they work tediously on their subjects, trying to teach us to meet our needs after we graduate from high school. How many times would we have strayed from our goal had it not been for their eternal vigilance in guiding us toward our educational objectives. No more do the conjugation of verbs and the ciphering of arithmetical conundrums serve as the prime means to success. Our JHS teachers realize the importance of personality training—the ability to meet and to mix with people in later years. Of course, educational requirements are the basis of JHS regulations, but aside from the necessities come the training in foresight and reasoning. (continued on next page.)

Our teachers do not limit their activities to class room work alone. Most of them have added duties, such as sponsoring societies, publications, or organizations. Our teachers supply a school spirit to our activities with a feeling of student-teacher friendship rather than the strained relationship of years ago. This greatly aids in furthering our education, for the greatness of a school does not lie in the size of the halls, the height of the building, or the beauty of the architecture, but rather in the administration—the teaching element—the backbone of any educational institution. We only hope our teachers' efforts have not been in vain.

Day Is Done -- Lowering the flag at J. H. S. symbolizes the nearness of the close of day.

Thus, we end our 1948 JOPLIMO, taking time to follow tradition with a ceremony known to the world.
